

...last, was well attended. There was an immense quantity of cattle of every description, which sold at a very low price. The best of the sheep were sold at a price of 3d to 4d per pound. There were some remarkably fine hogs in the market. The best of the hogs of superior quality were sold at a price of 10s to 12s per head. The best of the hogs of inferior quality were sold at a price of 5s to 7s per head. The best of the hogs of medium quality were sold at a price of 8s to 10s per head. The best of the hogs of poor quality were sold at a price of 3s to 5s per head.

The Queen's Trial.

OFFICE OF LORDS, 26th July, 1849.
The Queen's Trial commenced on the 26th of July, 1849, at 11 o'clock. The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

his brothers at Rome, and the Duchess of Fullin, the wife of the late Duke of Fullin, who had been married to Rome her Royal Highness travelled in hand luggage with glasses and silk curtains. They went with her to the Palazzo Brancaccio, where they remained for the first and second days of the journey. The first day of the journey was the 10th of July, and they arrived in the middle of the following day at St. Angelo. Sir Jacob travelled that journey from Rome to St. Angelo. He travelled in the carriage of her Royal Highness's carriage before her Royal Highness's carriage. He travelled in the carriage of her Royal Highness's carriage before her Royal Highness's carriage. He travelled in the carriage of her Royal Highness's carriage before her Royal Highness's carriage.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

board, and I did several trifling things for him on the 10th of July. I was not present on the 11th of July, and I did not see him on that day. I was not present on the 12th of July, and I did not see him on that day. I was not present on the 13th of July, and I did not see him on that day. I was not present on the 14th of July, and I did not see him on that day. I was not present on the 15th of July, and I did not see him on that day.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.

BY MR. WILKINS.—The Queen was seated on a throne in the centre of the court, and was attended by her ladies-in-waiting. The Duke of Devonshire acted as the Queen's advocate, and the Duke of Wellington as the Crown's advocate. The trial was conducted in a solemn and dignified manner, and the Queen was acquitted of all the charges against her.