Alone, in the fading light.
Why is his brow so heavy with gleom,
And his cheeks so deadly white?

But though his heart is sick with care, His courage never blenches, His eyes are fixed in a glassy stare— What is it his firm hand clenches? "A little courage," he murmurs. "A little, and all is won,"
A choking gurgle, more or less,
A gasp, and the deed is done.

Without a shudder, or eyelid wink— Ah, it makes the heart recoil, That he could so truly, calmly drink A dose of castor oil!
